Finding the right PM at short notice is one of the most stressful talent challenges an HR team faces. The permanent hire takes months. An agency places someone unknown. And the project cannot wait. Deployiq offers a different answer — a curated network of senior, experienced project managers who choose to work on short-term engagements because they love the work. Locally based in the Western Cape, with additional specialists available internationally when the project demands it.

WHAT MAKES A DEPLOYIQ PM DIFFERENT

They've seen it all before

With 15–30 years of delivery experience, a Deployiq PM recognises situations that would take a younger PM months to diagnose. They hit the ground running — every time.

People, not just process

Project success is built on relationships — with stakeholders, sponsors and teams. Deployiq PMs manage the human side of delivery with the confidence that only comes from years of navigating real organisational complexity.

No ego. No drama.

These are professionals who choose short-term work because the work itself motivates them. They have nothing to prove, no politics to play, and every incentive to deliver cleanly and hand over gracefully.

HOW IT WORKS — SIMPLE FOR YOUR TEAM

1. You tell us what you need
   Project type, sector, duration, start date, any specific requirements. One conversation is usually enough.
2. We match and propose
   We identify the right person from our network — assessed for skill, sector fit and working style. We present a candidate, not a shortlist.
3. We handle the contract
   Agile Revive contracts with your organisation directly. No separate engagement with the individual, no agency layers, no confusion over accountability.
4. We stay involved
   We monitor the engagement throughout. If something isn't working, we address it. You have one point of contact for everything.

THE AGILE REVIVE DIFFERENCE

Most organisations hire PMs on credentials alone. Deployiq goes further — every placement is assessed not just for technical skill, but for people intelligence, situational judgement and cultural fit. Because the projects that succeed are the ones where the PM understands that managing people is just as important as managing the plan.
